EVEN CALM CAL IS EXCITED BY RETURN OF ACE

Enthusiasm in America Grows as Lindbergh Speeds to
U. S. on Cruiser

SPECIAL TRAINS TO RUN

Capital Prepares to Handle
Hundreds of Thousands
at Flier's Welcome

C. S. S. Memphis, by Wireless to the Associated Press—News that the Bellanca plane Columbia had passed with in 12 miles of the Memphis in its trans-Atlantic flight from New York to a European destination, was the big event of Sunday, not only for Captain Lindbergh, but for the entire personnel of this cruiser which is taking the aviator back to America. Lindy rushed to the bridge as soon as the wireless report was heard that the S. S. Mauretania had sighted the plane. He scanned the horizon hoping to catch a glimpse of the Columbia, but although the Mauretania at that time was still in sight nothing whatever was seen of the flier by the Memphis. This probably was due to the heavy mist prevailing.

On the whole, Captain Lindbergh had the quietest day Sunday since he left home to start his epochal flight. He did as he desired, reading American newspapers and letters. In the morning he attended divine service, and afterwards spent some time on the bridge with Benjamin Mahoney, of the firm that built his plane, the "Spirit of St. Louis."

Glad to be free from the strenuous round of welcoming ceremonies and entertainments, Lindy is making the most of Vice Admiral Burnes, who is coming meeting when he boarded the ship to feel completely at home and "take no orders from anyone."

GOLF IS DANGEROUS SPORT, INSURANCE FIGURES DISCLOSE

Hartford, Conn.—(P)—Golf is the third most dangerous sport, so far as accident frequency is concerned, insurance figures reveal. Only baseball and hunting surpass it in danger to the participant. In analyzing the 33,303 accidents, for which the company paid $14,577,773 last year, actuaries of the Travelers Insurance Co. disclosed Monday that golf was responsible for 451 mishaps and the payment of $51,995. The sum represents the largest amount paid for any class of sport or recreational casualties.

Even the nineteenth hole would appear to hold great hazards, for 12 persons were "cut on sharp instruments" and the statement naively explained that the instruments were "holes."

The most common accident was by slipping or falling on uneven ground, 243 victims having their claims allowed.

BADGER KILLS TWO AND TURNS PISTOL ON SELF

Grantsburg Man Shoots Divorced Wife and Railroad Relief Operator

Grantsburg—(P)—Three graves in the same cemetery will receive the bodies of John Erickson, and his two victims this week, to close the triple tragedy disclosed here Saturday.

A coroner's jury Saturday decided that Erickson shot and killed Lester Anderson, 27, relief operator of the Northern Pacific, Friday night and early Saturday went to the home of his divorced wife, shot her to death after she had summoned the sheriff, and then killed himself with the same weapon.

When Mrs. Erickson obtained a divorce, changing her name to Mrs. Erickson, she was living with her husband at the Northern Pacific Railroad station where he killed Anderson, a relief operator, and then proceeded to the home of his former wife. He shot and killed her as she telephoned the sheriff, then turned his pistol on himself, and was dead when officers arrived. Anderson's body was found by an uncle when the station was opened Saturday morning.

The killer broke into his divorced wife's home by crashing through a window. Mrs. Erickson immediately phoned Charles H. Saunders, whom she had warned some days ago that she feared death. The sheriff heard just four words "for God's sake, come," before the woman was jerked from the telephone. The sheriff went to the Erickson place to find the couple dying.

SHOT WIFE TWICE

Erickson had shot his wife in the mouth, but she ran to a window and tried to hurl herself out. He pulled her back inside and shot her dead through the left eye. He then committed suicide, placing a bullet from his calibre revolver through his right temple. Anderson had been shot through the right eye.

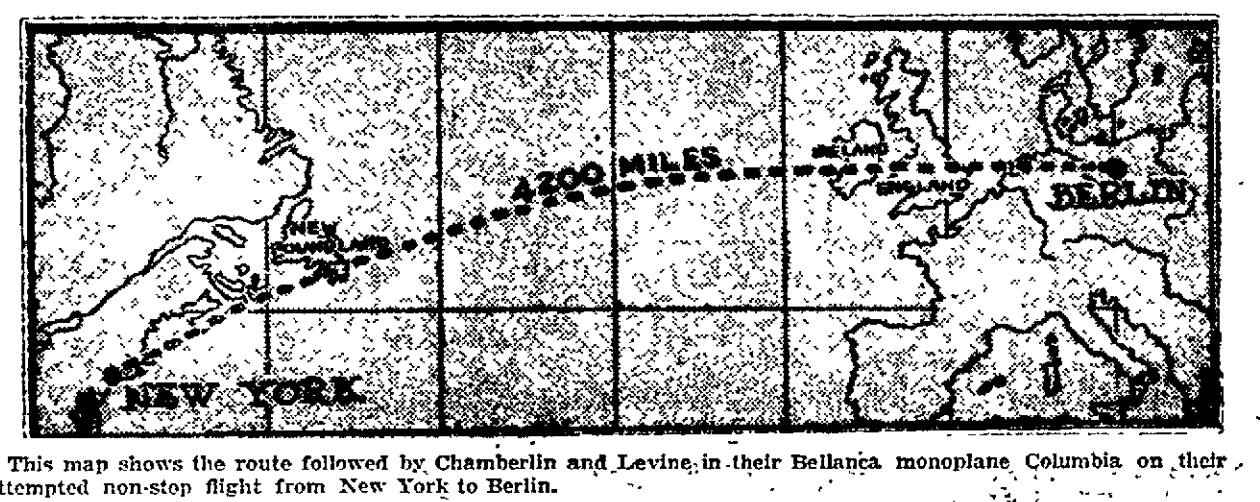

Erickson said he would kill his wife if she tried to get a divorce and she had received none, said Coroner Claus A. Taylor, except that she got $5 monthly for school maintenance of her two sons. Recently, she is said to have spoken to her attorney C. J. Strand about alimony.

Anderson, the coroner said, was constantly teasing the barber about his divorce and twitting him because he was jealous of his former wife. Erickson had borrowed $300 from the telegraph operator four years ago and never paid the note. Efforts to collect it had stirred up further dissension.

Yankee Aviators Land In Germany After Flying Over Atlantic Ocean

Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine just before they hopped off from Roosevelt field, New York, in their attempt to fly to Berlin. Their trip ended at Eisleben, in the province of Saxony, Prussia, when a forced landing resulted in a broken propeller. The two will be guests of the American embassy at Berlin.

This map shows the route followed by Chamberlin and Levine in their Bellanca monoplane, Columbia, on their attempted non-stop flight from New York to Berlin.

Washington—Several days ago this correspondent wrote that the United States government had taken possession of Charles Lindbergh abroad. Now it may be said that Lindbergh has taken possession of the American government.

Seldom has there been such a fever and excitement running through the whole governmental structure. Even President Coolidge, calm and unexcitable, has felt the surge of enthusiasm and anticipation. He gave instructions that the business meeting of the government planning for next Saturday evening be moved back a night so that the radio broadcast might be devoted entirely to Lindbergh and so that everyone in the government circle might participate in the ceremonies being planned.

The railroad report that they will have many excursion trains. Already they have requests for special trains from a number of cities. The citizen's committee which is working on plans for the reception of Lindbergh at the Washington airport is being organized on Pennsylvania-ave such as is usually accorded to an incoming president of the United States inauguration.

EXPECT HUGE CROWDS

As for crowds, the city is planning to handle hundreds of thousands. So many people in nearby cities fear that Lindbergh may visit just New York and St. Louis and believe that the time to see him is in Washington. The national capital always attracts a large number of tourists by motor and train in June, so the double opportunity of seeing Lindbergh and the president of the United States and high officials in the ceremonies will be the distinguished flying cross is to be presented in an added reason for folks to make the journey here. Washington is a few hours ride from the homes of millions of people and that's why "Lindbergh day" for it is already being called that officially, is likely to have an extraordinary holiday in the history of the nation.

RISE IN ENTHUSIASM

Although the trip which Lindbergh made across the Atlantic ocean is already two weeks old, one might think it had just happened. Instead of a diminution of interest of enthusiasm, there is a noticeable rise in popular interest. Possibly this is due to the fact that immediately after his daring exploit, Lindbergh did something more—he contacted himself before kings and queens and parliaments in a manner that awakens the pride of America. Giving an opportunity to receive such unsurpassed attention, the young American revealed the characteristics of modesty and good taste which are the objectives of all perchance to American youth.

Anyhow, the city of Washington, which doesn't often have the opportunity to honor private citizens who have achieved prominence, unless in some way they attain high public office or military honors, is likely to be beset on young Lindbergh a welcome such as no American citizens in this generation have ever received. For there is something indefinable about the whole Lindbergh affair which has aroused patriotic fervor and given the government itself a chance to express for the nation its thanks and satisfaction over the courage and good sense of the youthful aviator.

HOLD-UP MAN GETS ABOUT $50 AT GAS FILLING STATION

Bandit Forces Attendant to Turn Over Contents of Cash Register

A slender, dark complexioned man of medium height walked into the office of the Fox River Oil and Gas station, 225 W. College ave, at 2:55 Monday morning, pulled a revolver out of his pocket and forced Frank Kimball, 739 E. Atlantic, station attendant, to turn over the contents of the cash register, approximately $50, to him.

He then made Mr. Kimball turn out the lights and ordered him into the cellar, warning him to "stay down below if he knew what was good for him."

Mr. Kimball telephoned police headquarters as soon as the bandit had disappeared, and Sgt. John Duval and Officers Gus Hersekorn and A. F. Delgen answered the call. Although they searched the neighborhood thoroughly, they failed to find any trace of the hold-up man.

"STICK 'EM UP"

The station attendant was alone when the bandit entered. Turning around when he heard the door open, Mr. Kimball was greeted with "Stick 'em up."

Not knowing whether the stranger was in earnest, Mr. Kimball did not comply with the former's request immediately, and the visitor repeated the command in a sharper tone.

"Stick 'em up and be damn quick about it," he repeated.

Mr. Kimball did as he was told. Then the bandit noticed that the station man held a crank in one hand. "Drop that," he next ordered.

"Now, where's the cash?"

Mr. Kimball pointed out the cash register, and prodded by the revolver, he emptied the till and handed over the money. All the time he was urged to hurry, the bandit emphasizing his orders by brandishing his gun in his victim's face and poking it into his ribs.

After he had all the money in his possession he compelled Mr. Kimball to turn out the lights and go down cellar.

The bandit was about 5 feet 6 or 7 inches tall, and wore a dark overcoat and dark glasses. A gray cap was pulled down low over his eyes. He was extremely slender, and appeared to have a dark skin, according to Mr. Kimball.

Officer William Lockery was across the street while the hold-up was taking place and heard voices in the station, but he thought a customer had entered the office, it was reported by Mr. Kimball. Several customers had been in the station a little earlier, it was reported.

Police Monday were expecting to question several persons as suspects.

BRITISH AIRMEN WATCH FOR BELLANCA MONOPLANE

London—(P)—That Captain Lindbergh's marvelous feat has whetted the interest of English and European aviators, was evidenced by the eagerness with which news was awaited of the Bellanca plane in its flight from the new to the old world. Airmen in all parts of western and central Europe were alert, straining eyes and ears for a sign of the Columbia. The Croydon and Lympne airdrome staffs stood by all night, flashing their searchlights in case the fliers needed them.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN THREE LAKES

Small Boats Capsize on Lake Puckaway, Lake Winnebago and Green Bay

Milwaukee—(P)—Seven lives are believed to have been lost when small boats capsized on Lake Puckaway, Lake Winnebago and Green Bay over the weekend.

Three Milwaukee men were believed drowned Sunday on Lake Puckaway. Green Lake-co, as the traffic end to a fishing trip that took them out on the lake in a rowboat. Two youths apparently lost their lives when their rowboat foundered in a storm on Lake Winnebago Saturday. A futile search for the missing boat was made Sunday for two Green Bay youths believed to have drowned in Green Bay Saturday afternoon.

The supposed victims of the Lake Puckaway capsizing are: Ira Smith, 21, Earl Alfier, 17, and Arthur Erdman, 28, all of Milwaukee. The body of Erdman was found beneath the overturned boat, entangled in wire attached to an anchor. The bodies of the two other men had not been recovered Sunday night.

Heavy waves on Lake Winnebago were believed responsible for the wrecking of a rowboat in which Thomas Brown, 10, and Harold Schilf, 12, were fishing and did not return. Found on Lake Winnebago recovered the body of Brown. Schilf is missing after a prolonged search by firemen and volunteers Saturday and Sunday.

An overturned canoe found floating near the mouth of the river whose source is Green Bay led to belief that Clifford Lankovich, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lankovich, and Leonard Bagdon, 19, son of Mr. John Sludzinski, Green Bay, had lost their lives. The two were at Bay Beach Saturday and left in a canoe to paddle to the city. Searching parties failed to find their bodies Sunday.

Chamberlin Flight Points To Future Of Air Travel

Washington—(P)—Aviation's goal of the commercial possibilities of regular operation of trans-Atlantic aeroplanes has been brought nearer realization by Clarence Chamberlin's New York-to-Germany flight, in the view of Washington officials.

Although regret was generally expressed that he failed to reach his objective of Berlin in air circles here Monday, Chamberlin's safe forced landing at Eisleben was hailed with great rejoicing.

The flight, following little more than a fortnight Captain Lindbergh's single-handed New York to Paris passage, was characterized as another manifestation of the future practicalities of long distance commercial air transportation and as giving American aviation undeniable world prestige.

The flight assumed, in the opinion of officials, both the cloak of military menace and of international amity. Some military officials regarded the flight as a need for adequate air defenses. Secretary of State Kellogg ranked the trans-oceanic flights as highly important events in increasing good feeling and closer relations between the United States and European nations.

President Coolidge, during the cruise of his yacht Mayflower on Chesapeake bay Sunday, evidenced interest in the flight by receiving wireless reports on his progress.

In a cablegram to Chamberlin which was to be delivered by Ambassador Schurman upon his return to Berlin, Secretary Kellogg congratulated the pilot of his "splendid achievement."

"Your flight should be a great impetus to the development of commercial aviation," his message said.

The Columbia carried the first mail between New York and Germany, including a message to the Aero club of Germany from Carl F. Schory, secretary of the National Aeronautic association.

Wisconsin Farmer Charged With Attempt to Dynamite Home of Father-in-law

Madison—(P)—District Attorney Glenn D. Roberts Monday asked and was granted a subpoena duces tecum for a letter written by a farmer between Cambridge and Rockdale, Ill., in a mental examination as the result of his alleged confession that he plotted to bomb the home of his father-in-law, John White, Rockdale farmer.

"Sievert was arrested on his farm Saturday afternoon after a piece of stove wood, fashioned into a bomb, had been discovered in the road near the White home. County officials here said Sievert confessed Sunday night to making the bomb because of his animus toward White because he believed Mr. and Mrs. White had influenced his wife, their daughter, to leave him and return to them. The county officials said Sievert confessed that he threw the explosive laden piece of wood at the White home last Wednesday night."

Sievert was married to Boush White school teacher, last March. In a divorce petition, pending here, she charges that White choked her, beat her and threw her across the room.

After hearing a car stop in front of their home Wednesday night, Mrs. White found a piece of stove length wood in the front yard Wednesday morning. She took it to the woodpile, where it lay in two missing its load of dynamite, caps and fuse by fractions of an inch. Noticing the hollowed-out nature of the split piece and its partially revealed end, Mrs. White showed the bomb to her family. They called officers. The controversy between the parents and their son-in-law was revealed. Sievert was arrested.

Madison—(P)—District Attorney Glenn D. Roberts Monday asked and was granted a subpoena duces tecum for a letter written by a farmer between Cambridge and Rockdale, Ill., in a mental examination as the result of his alleged confession that he plotted to bomb the home of his father-in-law, John White, Rockdale farmer.

"Sievert was arrested on his farm Saturday afternoon after a piece of stove wood, fashioned into a bomb, had been discovered in the road near the White home. County officials here said Sievert confessed Sunday night to making the bomb because of his animus toward White because he believed Mr. and Mrs. White had influenced his wife, their daughter, to leave him and return to them. The county officials said Sievert confessed that he threw the explosive laden piece of wood at the White home last Wednesday night."

Sievert was married to Boush White school teacher, last March. In a divorce petition, pending here, she charges that White choked her, beat her and threw her across the room.

After hearing a car stop in front of their home Wednesday night, Mrs. White found a piece of stove length wood in the front yard Wednesday morning. She took it to the woodpile, where it lay in two missing its load of dynamite, caps and fuse by fractions of an inch. Noticing the hollowed-out nature of the split piece and its partially revealed end, Mrs. White showed the bomb to her family. They called officers. The controversy between the parents and their son-in-law was revealed. Sievert was arrested.

AIRMEN LAND 70 MILES FROM CAPITOL CITY

Columbia Refuels at Eisleben, Breaks Propeller at Klinge Village

FLIERS LOSE THEIR WAY

Travel Distance Required to Land at Berlin but in Wrong Direction

Berlin—(P)—For the second time in little more than a fortnight an American aeroplane has spanned the vast Atlantic and landed safely on the European continent.

The non-stop flight of the Bellanca monoplane Columbia piloted by Clarence D. Chamberlin with Charles A. Levine as his companion, ended at Eisleben, Saxony, 110 miles southwest of Berlin, at 5 o'clock Monday morning (midnight New York daylight saving time) when the fuel supply was exhausted.

Taking to the air again, the fliers made a brave attempt to reach Berlin, but apparently lost their way in the cloudbanks and adverse winds encountered during the morning, and came down at last in a marshy field at the village of Klinge, near Kottbus, Brandenburg, 70 miles southeast of the capital. In attempting the propeller hit the ground. The wheels of the Columbia settling into the marshy ground and further progress was impossible. The plane had travelled 120 miles from Eisleben and, if headed in the right direction, would have landed at Berlin.

FOUND BY GERMANS

The Columbia was located by one of the Luftwaffe's scouting planes from Tempelhof field, Berlin, at the moment Chamberlin and Levine, it was announced, will spend the night at Kottbus and will be brought to Berlin tomorrow afternoon. While there they will stay at the American embassy. On receipt of the news of the landing, the hands stopped playing at the Tempelhof airdrome and the great crowd waiting there was advised to disperse.

The landing at Klinge was made at 10:30 Monday morning when the Columbia, after 42 hours of continuous progress from Roosevelt field, Long Island, was forced to descend by shortage of fuel.

Resuming the flight at 9:35, Chamberlin passed over Eisleben in the direction of Berlin at 10:10, but apparently miscalculated the direction and swung lightly to the southeast instead of to the northeast. While coming short of its goal the Columbia, on reaching Eisleben, set a new record for long distance sustained flight covering 2,600 miles, compared with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris hop of 2,610 miles. Captain Lindbergh, however, was unaccompanied in his flight.

PLANS NOT CERTAIN

At Kottbus Chamberlin and Levine told the Associated Press Monday afternoon they would not decide upon their time for their departure for Berlin until Monday night, and perhaps until Tuesday. They will make the trip either in the Columbia after it is repaired, or in one of the planes offered to them by the Luftwaffe.

Chamberlin's plane was his plane, the "Spirit of Little Falls." Four men composed the party, headed by Major A. L. Grimes of the Minnesota city.

The men are well acquainted with the world-famous aviator, one being the family dentist, another owning a book store where Lindy bought text books and the other two boyhood chums.

GEORGE YOUNG WINS IN MILWAUKEE RACES

Milwaukee—(P)—George Young, driving a Clemons, tore around the mile oval at state fair park Sunday and won first place in the 30-mile feature race. He was clocked at 2:22. Young was awarded the $150 purse that went to the winner.

The big thrill of the six events came at the beginning of the 20-mile whirl when Johnny Sawyer's car skidded on the south turn. The whirling around Carl Marchese took to the outside fence to avoid a crash. Marchese crashed through the barrier and ended up against a ticket office. His right arm was cut and bruised. Austin Erickmann, Shobyan, also injured in the mixup and brought his car to a stop midway in the hole made by Marchese.

ASK FOR DIRECTION

The Columbia was first sighted and identified over German soil when Chamberlin flew over Dortmund, 260 miles from Berlin, swooping close to the ground and asking directions by pointing "To Berlin? To Berlin?"

Text was at 4 o'clock Monday morning. Then came conflicting reports. At Eisleben, American Ambassador Schurman went home, dressed in warm clothing and a golf cap and prepared to go to Berlin. Meanwhile it was reported that the Columbia had been taken over by the Germans.

LAWMAKERS MEET AT NIGHT TO PASS ON MANY MINOR BILLS

Proposal to Kill Boxing in State Recommended for Killing

Madison—(P)—For its weekend opening session Monday night, the assembly has a long, but largely uninteresting calendar.

Most of the thirty measures that are up for enactment, third reading, passage of indefinite postponement, pertain to remote sections of the statutes or are simply revisionary, having little direct application to the individual citizen.

Among the bills scheduled for indefinite postponement is the Kiamie bill "relating to the state athletic commission." It would repeal the law by which boxing is made legal in Wisconsin, thereby making fist exhibition illegal. The state affairs committee has recommended that it be killed by the lower house.

There are three fish hatchery bills before the house, making appropriations for the Eau Claire, Westfield and a new Dunn-co fish hatcheries. The Eau Claire nursery appropriation is sought at the request of the red and sun club of that city.

Assemblyman LaFevre's bill allowing establishment of county homes for the feeble-minded in counties having 250,000 population, is among the ten on which committees have recommended indefinite postponement.

STOP WATER POLLUTION
The interim committee bill introduced in the upper house by Senator Chase, and intended to stop pollution of waters of the state by providing penalties for the dumping therein of sewage and industrial wastes, is scheduled for third reading in the assembly.

Tuesday the lower house with more members present than usually attend the opening session, is to consider more important bills.

The governor's veto of the bill giving the state board of medical examiners $5,000 for investigation and education of "quack" doctors is to be before the assembly. The question is upon overriding his veto.

Assemblyman Swanson's bill setting up a guarantee fund for bank depositors is on the calendar after the question "shall the bill be enacted and read a third time?" Making all statutory arrangements for support by the banks of a fund from which their depositors would be paid in event of the bank's failure, the bill has been recommended for passage by the committee on insurance and banking.

SCAMMIDGE BRIDGE AID
The same question is to be put to the house on the committee on highways bill, limiting county support of state highway bridges to $100,000 where the county is especially benefited and $50,000 where it is among other counties benefited by the bridge.

The law now reads that the county and state shall split the expense equally.

The bill for pensioning conservation wardens after they have become old in the service is up for engrossment.

The biennial appropriation bill will have started coming in. Those for the attorney general's department and the superintendent of public instruction, are on the Tuesday calendar.

Senator Daggett's bill repealing the teacher's retirement surtax is the last bill on the calendar. As the result of the largely adverse hearing it received a few days ago, the bill has been recommended for non-concurrence by the committee on education.

REGISTER NOW FOR WAUPACA GIRL CAMP

Outing Period Will Be Conducted from June 23 to July 7

Girls who wish to camp with the Appleton Girl Scouts association at Camp Onaway, Waupaca, from June 23 to July 7, must register with Miss Agnes Vanneman at the Appleton Women's club as soon as possible.

Reservations for tents should be made soon, the director said, as several already have been reserved. Miss Elmer Stuchland of the women's club will take tent reservations as well as Miss Vanneman. The number for each week will be limited to 75 girls.

Swimming at the camp will be under strict supervision to insure the safety of campers, the director explained. Miss Vanneman will be in charge of the swimming work and will be assisted by Miss Katherine Small. Both are life saver examiners.

Counselors who have passed the life saving tests are Mrs. J. H. Wright, Miss Geneva Lundgren of Omaha, Neb., John Zinsman and Miss Mary Morton. Senior life savers who will be enrolled at the camp are Miss Dorothy Calum and Miss Margaret Keller, and Juniors are Miss Wilhelmina Meyer, Miss Betty Meyer, Miss Janice Rose, Miss Mary Frank and Miss Ramona Ryan.

Swimmers will be restricted to a certain territory, and those not able to swim 100 yards and pass other tests set forth by the directors will not be allowed to swim in the deep end of the pool. A life guard will be on duty during swimming periods, and a lookout will be stationed at the shore. The "buddy" system of swimming is used. No one will be allowed in the water without a partner.

Regular swimming periods will be observed. The camp will be open for instruction and for afternoon games, stunts and free play. The winners and expert swimmers are entered in different classes.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sealed proposals will be received by the Building Committee of the Appleton District No. 5, Town of Cross Plains, Wisconsin, for the construction and completion of a building. Plans and specifications may be secured from Arthur J. J. Appleton, W. S. R. P. D. No. 4, 1st St. Appleton, Wis. The proposals must be filed with the committee on or before 11 o'clock A. M. of June 11, 1927.

Urge Air Mail Reception For Atlantic Conqueror

An air mail reception has been planned for Captain Charles Lindbergh in order that all people who wish may have a part in the welcome to the young flier, according to a notice received at the local postoffice.

President Coolidge suggested that the reception of Captain Lindbergh be nationwide in its aspect. In view of his connection with the postoffice department as an air mail pilot, the department has asked postmasters to advise mailers in their communities of the proposed air mail reception to "the conqueror of the Atlantic" who is due to arrive in Washington, not later than June 13.

TRESPASSERS AT CAMP M'COY TAKE PERSONAL RISKS

Government Will Not Be Responsible for Injuries, Commander Warns

Sparta—(P)—The boom of the big guns at Camp McCoy has invited many of the curious into the camp's danger zone and in the interests of safety, Colonel H. R. Camp, Commander, has issued a formal warning.

Any persons trespassing on the reservation, according to Colonel Perry, will be doing so at their own personal risk. The firing season will not close until September 1, when practice with the three inch guns will be discontinued.

"The United States government will in no case be responsible for injury inflicted on persons, property or animals trespassing on the reservation," Colonel Perry said. "This does not imply that visitors to the camp are welcome but is intended solely as a warning to keep off the Artillery Range." Visitors will be instructed where to enter and leave the camp.

Approximately 33,000 young men of Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin are in the three first named states this summer.

Of this number 4,500 will attend the Citizens' Military Training Camps to be held this year in the Sixth Corps Area. Approximately 300 will train with the artillery at Camp McCoy, July 7 to August 5.

Present indications are that 4,500 Artillerymen of the National Guard contingents will pitch tents at Camp McCoy during June, July and August. More than 300 reserve officers of the Organized Reserves and 119 students of the R. O. T. C., will be in training.

is due to arrive in Washington, not later than June 13. It was hoped that all those interested in Captain Lindbergh and the air mail would send him a greeting by air mail to be delivered on his arrival in Washington.

Arrangements will be made by the postoffice department to give it special handling and to see that it is authoritatively delivered promptly on the flier's arrival.

Postmasters were authorized to have circulars carried to patrons of rural and city routes telling of the reception. The suggested form for such circulars says that: "You may not be able to be present in person at the national reception to Captain Charles A. Lindbergh at Washington, but for 10 cents you can help make his welcome home the most impressive national reception ever tendered anyone by sending by air mail a personal expression of appreciation of his great exploit that has so redounded to the credit and glory of American aviation. All mail should be addressed to Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, care of Postmaster general, Washington, D. C. and should carry the air mail postage, 10 cents per half ounce, and the envelope marked Via air mail only. These letters may be deposited in any postoffice box."

SCHOOL PRINCIPAL IS AUTHOR OF BOOK

Appreciation of Child's Biological Environment Presented in Work

An appreciation of the child's biological environment is given in the book entitled "Plant and Animal Neighbors" written by Frank E. Younger, principal of the McKinley junior high school, for use in the junior high schools in the city. The writer has made an effort to give a "bird's eye view" of this environment and to create a love for the out-of-doors by presenting an insight into some of the life processes of familiar plant and animal neighbors, according to the foreword.

Among those persons thanked for their assistance are Prof. R. C. Mullen of Lawrence college, Ben J. Rohm, superintendent of schools, and the junior high school science teachers in Appleton.

"Because of the very nature of the work, it is difficult to make it an exploratory subject," the author said.

"At the same time, however, it does allow for some exploration, as noted in the work of the bacteriologist, the landscape gardener, the botanist, the entomologist, and kindred lines of endeavor."

Among the chapter headings are: Our Plant and Animal Neighbors, Reproduction in Plants, The Plant Storage in the Seed—Growth and Development, How Plants Make Food, Other Plants—Exotics, The Funni, Study of the Spring Wild Flowers, Making an Herbarium, Making Our Home Surroundings Beautiful, One-Celled Animals, Our Friend—the Earthworm, Insects—the Grasshopper, the Mussel Family, the Frog Family, the Bird Family.

Diagrams of specimens of plants and animals and of plans for making surroundings more attractive illustrate the work.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Somewhat unsettled tonight and Tuesday; slightly warmer tonight in south portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is high this morning from the northern Pacific coast eastward to the Atlantic and southward to the lower Mississippi valley, with a crest of the "high" over the Lake region and Ohio valley. This is attended by mostly fair weather, though with some cloudiness and some light showers over the central plain states. The low pressure area is crossing the far Canadian north, but it appears to be too far away to materially influence this section and it is anticipated that the "high" will continue to cause generally fair weather and moderate temperatures in this section tonight and Tuesday, though probably with some cloudiness.

PISTOL CAPS CAUSE MINATURE BLAST AND FIRE AT POSTOFFICE

Serious injuries from pistol caps were escaped by mere chance by a clerk at the postoffice here on Saturday. When the clerk stamped the letter to cancel the stamp an explosion occurred, burning much of the enclosed letter, and the envelope.

Sending of explosives and inflammables through the mails is strictly prohibited by the postal department and severe penalties may be inflicted, postmaster F. F. Wolfson said. With July 4, approaching children might mail inflammables and explosives, and the danger connected with the practice should be emphasized by parents, it was said. The envelope found Saturday was sent by a small Appleton boy to his cousin. It was found by reading unburned portions of the letter but the names of both parties were destroyed in the explosion.

REDUCES SIZE OF HOUSE, GETS PERMIT

Zone Appeal Board Demands
Builder Have 12 Foot Rear
Yard

One building permit was refused, another was granted under certain conditions and action on a third was postponed until the next meeting, at a monthly meeting of the board of appeals at the city hall Monday morning. A permit was granted to Henry Dachelet, Sr., to construct a house on S. Spruce street. The building inspector had refused to grant the permit, because Mr. Dachelet's plans did not include a 12 foot rear yard as the building ordinance calls for. Mr. Dachelet reduced the size of his house from 22 to 18 feet and was permitted to extend the front line several feet beyond the limit set in the building ordinance. In order to allow for a 12 foot rear yard.

A permit was refused to P. G. Schwartz, to construct a garage at 421 W. Sixth street. Mr. Schwartz's plans showed that the garage would not comply with the line requirements set by the building ordinance. His appeal was heard at a meeting of the board last month but action was postponed to give Mr. Schwartz a chance to prepare more complete plans.

Action on the appeal of Mrs. A. Gehring, who was refused a permit to turn a garage to face another direction at 416 S. State st., was postponed until next meeting.

The Misses Gertrude and Margaret Dettman, Louise Fenske and Elfrida Braun, left Sunday for Shawano where they will spend a week's vacation.

The pool probably will be ready for use within another week, according to Alderman Wenzel Hassman, chairman of the public building and grounds committee which is supervising the work. The repairs are being made by the street department under the direction of R. F. Hackworthy, street commissioner. It is estimated the improvement will cost approximately $1,000.

DAUGHTERS OF MIDAS

By Anne Austin

Copyright 1927 by Anne Austin

THIS HAS HAPPENED. BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX, and WINNIE SHELTON, employees of the big Curtis department store, are taken into the home of their employer as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further their ambitions. Billy, who wants to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is sincere. The other two lie to enter T. Q.'s generosity.

Billy is infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hostess. She fears Dal is "infatuated" with her and Winnie SHELTON, and when the two are absent from the city over the same weekend, her suspicions are strengthened.

In spite of this infatuation, Billy tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinterested himself and is now building with Mrs. Wells in a new part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night.

The girls, according to T. Q., learn that he intends to adopt one of them when the year is over and to gain his affection, a series of intrigues follow which mysteriously involve not only the three girls, but Mrs. Meadows, EDDIE BANNING (Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart of other days), and Dal Romanine. Billy loses interest in her violin. She has a breakdown and leaves for a month, during which time she feels she has recovered from Rome's spell. The night of her return, she falls again under the strange, fascinating powers. While waiting on a balcony for her partner, Billy sees a scuffle between Romanine, who is strolling with Nyda, and Eddie Banning. When Billy later asks Romanine about it, he tells her that Banning has put himself and "someone else" in his power.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLII

Although Billy had felt those last days in Crescent Lake that she was entirely well and equal to anything, she was surprised to find, after her return to Colfax, that her nerves had merely been rested, not cured. She was glad to stay in her room until mid-morning each morning, having breakfast in bed, brought by the adoring Viola, who also served up the gossip of the household.

On Thursday, a little less than a week after Billy's return, Viola relayed a message to her from Nyda. "Miss Nyda she say will you do her a favor, Miss Billy, and play with them brats in the kindergarten room this afternoon. The four of them now, Miss Billy, and Miss Nyda sure do hate to be bothered with them kids. She say she got a 'portant engagement' this afternoon, else, she wouldn't ask you."

"Four of them?" Billy asked interestedly. "I thought there were only two—Mrs. Moore's little grandson, Tommy, and the cook's little girl, Beatrice."

"Sure, Mr. Curtis got two more kids for her to teach kindergarten stuff to," Viola chuckled. "Society kids, them new ones is, and first Miss Nyda cotched to 'em somethin' comical, but now she plum tired of the whole shootin' match."

Billy laughed. "Tell Nyda I shall be glad to help her out this afternoon, though I don't know the least thing about kindergarten work."

When Viola had left, Billy lay back in bed and reflected disgustedly on herself. Nyda had Winnie. What a fine trio of frauds they all were! Winnie had pretended that she wanted to become a private secretary—and the very sight of a dictionary gave her a headache. Nyda had stated, on the questionnaire, and in that lying letter of hers on "What I would do with a hundred thousand dollars," that the ambition which burned in her heart was to become a kindergarten teacher and social service worker among the children of the poor.

Well, she was getting her fill of it now. Billy told herself grimly. Since old T. Q. had fitted up a model kindergarten in his home she had been saddled with the care of two children for two days a week, when all her pleasure-loving nature cried out against this sacrifice of even four hours a week to the work she had professed to love with all her heart. And now T. Q. had added to her burdens by increasing the number of her charges to four. Billy wondered who these children were. "Society" children, Viola had said.

Poor Nyda! She did not dare rebel openly. Her strongest hold on T. Q. was only "edged" on the other two girls, was her professed love of children. Her choice of a profession had touched T. Q. profoundly, had endeared the tall, handsome, black-haired, dark-eyed girl to him as nothing else could have done. So Nyda had to play her part, no matter how much she hated the role she had chosen. If she expected to win in the strange contest to become T. Q. Curtis' adopted daughter.

Winnie, who felt so miserably, was playing her cards more skillfully than Nyda. Nyda was selfish, hard, concerned only with her own pleasure, and pleasure with Nyda meant the adulation of men, but she was not vicious, not really an accomplished schemer. Left undisturbed in her natural environment, as queen of the cosmetics department in the big Curtis Store, and as the acknowledged "vamp" of that city within a city, she would have continued to be happy in her way, and would eventually have married Eddie Banning or someone like him. No, there was no real evil in Nyda, or there had not been until T. Q. Curtis, unknown to himself, had dangled a fortune before her dazzled eyes. But Winnie—Billy's hands clenched at the very thought of Winnie SHELTON—Winnie was a shallow, lying schemer, cleverly cruel, unworldly little beast, who would stop at nothing to get what she wanted. And now, since she had become T. Q.'s ward, she wanted two things with all the energy of her mean nature—she wanted to win out in the contest to become T. Q.'s daughter and heiress, and she wanted Dal Romanine. She was marvelously cunning in her campaign to win T. Q.'s heart. Although it must have leaked her very soul, she was spending at least three evenings a week at home, working prettily and with many gestures of efficiency and bustle, at T. Q.'s desk, taking his dictation, obligingly slowing up to her lack of speed with short-hand notes, transcribing his letters on a shiny new typewriter that he had bought her, bending anxiously, even tearfully, over him as he made corrections on the ludicrously jumbled letters, which Billy was sure were never mailed.

Oh, it was sickening, sickening, Billy groaned, and turned her face from her pillow. And she, Billy Wells, who had so prided herself on her sincere ambition to become a great violinist, who had leaned over backward with a sturdy, peasant sort of independence—she was just as bad as either of the other two. What had she really done to justify her existence in T. Q.'s home, as his ward, there to prepare herself for her career?

She had neglected her violin until now she was ashamed to pick it up. She had squandered the money which should have gone for violin lessons on clothes, bought for the sole purpose of catching and holding Dal Romanine's eyes. But Winnie—Billy's hands clenched at the very thought of Winnie SHELTON—Winnie was a shallow, lying schemer, cleverly cruel, unworldly little beast, who would stop at nothing to get what she wanted. that, Dal, won't you? But what did you mean, Dal? Can't you tell me? After all, we're engaged to be married, dear. Can't you take me into your confidence?"

"Maybe I didn't mean anything," he teased her, reaching for his wallet to pay the check. "But—just for your own peace of mind—you haven't a thing in the world to fear from Nyda Lomax." His voice hesitated curiously between the two parts of the name, but Billy was too absorbed in wondering what he meant by his strange words to notice that faint, significant hesitation.

In the next chapter Nyda Lomax betrays herself to T. Q. Curtis, and the latter, hurt and disappointed, begins to think he has been a fool.

ANOTHER CHINESE CRISIS

Another crisis is developing in China. Following that which occurred at Shanghai some weeks ago the Cantonese forces have again pushed their way northward until they threaten Tientsin and Peking. There was a time after the capture of Shanghai when it appeared that the dissension which arose between the radical and moderate wings of the Nationalists threatened a disruption of the whole movement, with the prospect that it would extend its power no further northward and that China would remain divided between the military and political control which has involved it in general civil war.

Notwithstanding Chang-Tso-lin, the northern commander known as the Manchurian war lord, has been more friendly to foreign interests and is even reputed to have made overtures for their support of his government, the world has hoped to see the Cantonese successful. Their program is truly national and represents the one effective means of throwing off the foreign yoke and restoring China to independence and freedom. The only fly in the ointment so far as American approval of the nationalist cause is concerned is the fact that it has been tinged with bolshevism and that the relationship which has sprung up between it and soviet Russia is regarded as having some potential danger.

The new crisis in the Peking district requires the dispatch of additional American forces for the protection of our nationals in this territory. If the northerners are forced to retreat, it is morally certain that for a brief period at least Peking and Tientsin will be exposed to mob violence and irresponsible leaders. It is announced in Washington that our preparation for intervention is solely to safeguard the lives of foreigners, that it will not be used to prejudice the interest of any faction or the aspirations of China to complete self-government. As a matter of fact there was no necessity to make this explanation for that has been our policy always, and nothing has ever occurred in our relations with China to bring it into question or to suggest a lack of good faith. Perhaps it is done to placate hostile political criticism, which seemingly always must be taken into account whether it is honest or dishonest. It is already apparent that those who were quick to denounce the acts and policies of the administration in the Orient have been discredited by every subsequent event and it is difficult to see why any further attention should be paid to them.

CURBING THE MOB SPIRIT

A mob in Tampa, Fla., a few days ago bumped its collective heads against a sheriff that was just as hard-baked as it was, and when the smoke had cleared away eleven persons had been wounded, but the man for whose life they clamored was still in the hands of the law. The Tampa sheriff apparently took his oath of office seriously, for he did not relinquish his prisoner when called upon to do so by several hundred infuriated citizens. The prisoner had confessed to a murder, and it was the intention of the mob to hang him to the nearest telephone pole.

The sheriff had other plans. He called in all his deputies and set them to work. When his small force was threatened with extermination he retreated to a 100 national guardmen. He stood his ground and finally ordered the mob to disperse. A few more Southern born men were killed, but the bones like that of Sheriff Hiers of Tampa there would be fewer lynchings and race riots.

Sheriff Hiers believed that whether the man was guilty or not, the law should take its course. If found guilty, he will be hanged. It is the duty of the law to punish murderers. Mob rule leads nowhere but to violence and injustice. Oftentimes innocent men have fallen victims to these infuriated bands and have paid with their lives. Surface evidence often leads one to the opinion that a certain person is guilty of a crime, but when the real facts are sifted out the suspected one is found innocent.

All crimes, whether they are particularly brutal or not, should be left to the law. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred the guilty person will be punished. The mob spirit is dangerous and should be discouraged promptly and vigorously. It leads to a disrespect of all law and the rights of human beings. Every human being is entitled to a trial and it is the duty of law enforcement officers to see that he gets it. More power to Sheriff Hiers and his deputies.

LEGISLATURE OUTDOES ITSELF

The legislature has passed a resolution inviting President Coolidge to stop off at Madison on his vacation trip to South Dakota and address it. We confess that we were somewhat surprised at this display of courtesy. It is only a short while ago, under the administration of John J. Blaine, that all courtesies towards any person or party in sympathy with super-progress were taboo. Wisconsin did not even send an official representative to the inaugural ceremony of the president, because he was a republican. It has consented to recognize the authority of the president and federal government at Washington with reluctance. It has had a feeling as a matter of principle that no political party and no set of men not in harmony with its peculiar ideas has the right to run the affairs of this country. For this reason it has tried to show its disrespect for the government at Washington, and very often for the president himself, whenever opportunity afforded.

Perhaps the invitation to the president to address the legislature at Madison is meant to be a token of gratitude for his decision not to spend his vacation in Wisconsin. We are sure Mr. Blaine must have let go an exclamation of satisfaction when he learned of the selection of the Black Hills, South Dakota, as the summer White house. Whatever the facts or motives, the legislature has distinguished itself by its broadening action. One might even go so far as to interpret it as a sign of returning interest in the president of the United States and of a recognition of fealty to the occupant of the office.

However, we refrain from letting our speculations run too far afield. We do not want to misjudge the legislature or the politics of the great state of Wisconsin. Perhaps we have said too much already. The invitation may be based on altogether different grounds. We are glad it has been extended and we hope the president will accept. We think we can assure him of his personal safety. As for the legislature, it might profit by the incident in finding from close personal contact that President Coolidge is not altogether a man without honor and an enemy of society.

IT'S NOT FAIR, CHARLEY

Lindbergh will come straight to Washington on his return. It doesn't seem just fair to leave New York out of it like that. The same thing holds for Detroit, St. Louis, San Diego, Little Falls, Peoria, South Bend, Fort Worth and the Thousand Islands. Lindbergh will need more than a compass in Washington, though. They say the cross-currents of air there are very devastating. . . . Washington is planning entertainment for the young man. Why not call a special session of Congress? They ought to be at least one good picture in the fact that Lindbergh will be Coolidge's guest, but we fear the photographers never will get it. That would be a picture of Lindbergh in the president's home.

What about England sending a fleet to Ireland? You'll know it's summer some evening when you come home to the aroma of boiling tomato catsup.

TUBERCULOSIS TODAY

Fully one-half of the patients in a great sanatorium for tuberculosis can give no information about the source of their infection and the remainder are more or less hazy about it.

It was strongly contended years ago, notably by German physicians and medical research students, that pulmonary tuberculosis came from infection with tubercle bacilli in infancy or early childhood, and chiefly from bovine tuberculosis, via the milk from tuberculous animals. The infant or child thus infected carried the bacilli in a latent smouldering state in the lymph nodes ("glands") deep in the abdomen or in the back of the chest cavity or in the neck, until youth or early adult life, and then the tubercle bacilli somehow reached the lungs and set up active tuberculosis there.

Then came a number of equally good physicians and research students among them many Americans, who took issue with the German view and some of these even denied that bovine tuberculosis could occur in man. The present consensus, it seems, is that a sufficient amount of tuberculosis, at least of the bones and glands, in children and young adults, is of bovine origin and type, to warrant the most vigorous campaign to stamp bovine tuberculosis out of the dairy herds of this country, and also milk from animals that have not been tuberculin tested.

Authorities on the subject seem loath to express their views, if they have any, on the question of the transmission of bovine tuberculosis into pulmonary tuberculosis of man. They carry the bovine bacilli into the lymph nodes (thru the tonsils especially) and there they leave them. We may conjecture whether the zoonosis chance after countless generations into tubercle bacilli of the type that produces pulmonary tuberculosis.

The high school age period is the time when latent tuberculosis becomes manifest in most cases. Loss of weight in a youth of this age strongly suggests tuberculosis, if careful and repeated physical examination gives no definite information, the boy or girl should receive the skin tuberculin test, and if this gives a positive reaction, then X-ray pictures of the lungs are in order.

Often active tuberculosis in this early or incipient stage causes no loss of weight and so little cough that the lungs are not even suspected. A high school boy or girl developing pulmonary tuberculosis may nevertheless be an athletic star. So you see it will never do to dismiss the matter with the laugh and remark that the youngster is the very picture of health.

Neither rosy cheeks nor strength nor bright eyes spell health.

Dr. Lawrance Brown, whose "Rules for Recovery from Tuberculosis" is a classic, says: "The time to attack pulmonary tuberculosis is from puberty to the twentieth year. The majority of those who are found to have pulmonary tuberculosis after the twentieth year have definite discoverable signs of it in the second decade (from age 10 to age 20)."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Science
I have wanted for some time to write and thank you for your oft repeated saying there is no such thing as a cold. I am Science and have always said same, and if more of you M.D.'s would come right out and say just what we have always claimed. . . . Should be glad if you would prescribe something for misplaced carlinzine in right ear but do not wish to take medicine. (D. J. D.)

Answer—(And I am Science. Glad to meet you, Science. I know of no medicine which will replace a misplaced carlinzine in your ear—in fact I can't imagine how in tarnation you got the carlinzine out of place. . . . About the "cold," all I say is that when anybody purports to have a "cold" everybody else who comes within range may while away the incubation period (time from moment of exposure to beginning of illness) guessing whether it is going to be coryza, diphtheria, quinsy, meningitis, measles pneumonia or what not.

The Aluminum Bugaboo
Certain friends of ours have been discarding all their aluminum ware for cooking and going back to agate ware on the ground that aluminum is dangerous and we are to be declared in a few days that there is nothing in it? If there is, we would change, but don't want to act too soon. (R. E. A.)
Answer—I like aluminum ware in our own kitchen. The propaganda against the use of aluminum seems to be inspired by certain baking powder interests. The hokum distributed from Toledo comes, not from a physician, but from a dentist, and it has only the dentist's vacillations as a foundation.

ON—

STATE AND LOCAL TAXES

Washington, D. C. — Business men and taxpayers are too high should not be content merely to talk and complain about it as they talk and complain about the weather. They should get busy and do something about it. They should initiate a movement to simplify, coordinate, standardize, and synchronize the tax systems of the various States. Through some organization they should undertake to formulate a suitable state and local tax plan, and then by means of an educational campaign endeavor to encourage and persuade its general adoption.

Such is the opinion of Mark Graves, who, as a member of the New York State Tax commission, can qualify as an expert on the subject and was asked to discuss it before the United States Chamber of Commerce. But while he concedes that reforms are needed, Mr. Graves does not subscribe to the widely disseminated idea that the government tax bill of the country is unduly high and that waste and extravagance characterize the expenditure of state and local funds while the Federal government is conserving the people's resources.

We are told, he says, that the expenditures for all governmental purposes in the country are now around ten or eleven billion dollars yearly. This is the subject of much comment. Some believe that the vast expenditures are unwarranted, that they are due to waste and extravagance on the part of public officials and that the burden of taxation is almost if not quite unbearable.

Mr. Graves, answer to this is somewhat akin to the famous retort of the late Joseph G. Cannon to the member of Congress who was complaining about the constant increase in government appropriations and finally threw up his hands and wailed, "Why, at the rate we're going we'll soon be spending a billion dollars a year!"

"Hell, this is a billion-dollar country," answered "Uncle Joe."

WE CAN AFFORD ALL IT COSTS

"I doubt if things are as bad as they are represented," says Mr. Graves. "We spend upwards of four billion dollars annually in purchasing, maintaining, and operating automobiles; two billions for cigars, cigarettes, and other tobacco products; one billion for entertainment; and then after paying taxes we find the wealth of the nation is increasing at the rate of twenty-five billion annually."

Constant repetition of the statement that the Federal Government is continually reducing taxes and expenditures while the States and their localities are continually increasing theirs, he continues, causes many to believe that state and local officials are spendthrifts while Federal officials have the characteristics usually attributed to Scotchmen. A fair, impartial study of the facts does not warrant this assumption. Such comparisons are made by selecting the peak of war taxes as the basis with which to compare taxes of the present, and Mr. Graves holds any such comparison to be unfair.

If comparisons are to be made he maintains that a cycle from prewar normal conditions to postwar normal conditions should be selected. The fact is, he says, that Federal expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts in 1925 were 3.1 per cent higher than in 1915, while during the same period the expenditures of the States increased 17.5 per cent and those of cities having a population of 30,000 or more, 54 per cent. Of course the Federal expenditures included debt service payments and others directly due to the war, but an analysis shows that the payments for the usual expenses of the Federal Government common to every year's business are climbing, not declining.

This expert cites the reasons why the costs of Government have increased so noticeably in the past decade, the first being that the dollar does not purchase as much as it did in prewar times. That alone accounts for 50 per cent of the increase.

EDUCATION AND AUTOMOBILES

Education and automobiles, he finds, are responsible for a large part of the increase in governmental expenditures. "In 1915," he says, "the states and their municipal subdivisions expended for public education, in round figures, $330,000,000. In 1925, similar expenditures exceeded $850,000,000, an increase of nearly 200 per cent. If spending less means less education, few would favor reducing taxes by curtailing this item."

"The third principal cause for increase in state and local expenditures is the motor vehicle. That modern invention has necessitated more and better highways. Enormous sums are being spent annually by the states and their localities in constructing and maintaining roads. Moreover, the automobile has made it possible to extend and develop the suburbs of cities and that has required more streets, more street lighting, and, finally, the cities have been forced greatly to enlarge their appropriations for traffic control, including both traffic signal systems and traffic officers."

The fourth specific cause for the growing cost of government is that the population is increasing, and in addition the people are demanding more and better governmental service as the nation grows in wealth.

In the matter of tax reform, Mr. Graves does not suggest that each state should have a tax system precisely like that of every other state, but he does maintain that there must be some one general plan best suited for use in all states, a general plan to be modified and adapted according to the peculiar conditions existing in a given State.

He points out that about the only features common to all state tax laws now is the general property tax, but even in that an utter lack of uniformity is found. In some states little effort is given to the assessment of tangible personal property. Some states try to tax intangible personal property at the general property rate, others employ a low rate of tax on intangibles, and others have resorted to income taxation as the best method of reaching intangibles. In Rhode Island, banks pay no tax on shares, their capital, or their income; in Colorado, shares are taxed at the general property rate. In between these two extremes, financial institutions are taxed in the various states in different ways and at greatly varying rates.

To bring about a measure of uniformity, Mr. Graves says it will be necessary to establish and decide what the principal taxable abilities are what the auxiliary sources of revenue should be, and the relative amount of state and local revenue which should be exacted from each ability and each auxiliary source.

Then standard laws should be prepared for each tax, including the best administrative provisions, and after that would come the job of persuading 48 state legislatures to enact all or the more important of them.

Mr. Graves admits that it is rather an ambitious program.

MORE ABOUT DOGS

Editor Post-Crescent—We welcome the invitation of The Post-Crescent to its readers to make use of your "comment box." My grievance is dogs. Especially those dogs whose owners have not advanced far enough in the scale of civilization to recognize the fact that others have rights as well as themselves. Owners of other domestic animals are required to keep them within bounds. There is no domestic animal more annoying than a dog may be when allowed to run at large. Many people spend much time, money and effort trying to beautify their homes and surroundings, only to have the result of their care, expense and labor destroyed by dogs that have careless or indifferent owners, who regard not the rights of others.

Some of our aldermen argue, that since the city collects taxes on dogs, the dogs should be allowed to run at large. Do it remembered that we too pay taxes on our homes and therefore we have rights of protection due to us from our local government.

But does the city always collect license from dog owners? We will cite you a case of a dog owned on N. Superior-st. This dog has been a veritable pest for years past, committing unspeakable nuisances on flowers, garden vegetables intended for table use, and everything else within reach. The depredations of this worthless cur have been reported to the police department during the past years with the result that "Old Jake" is still with us, and during all these years he has never had a license tag stamped on his worthless neck. I believe the case cited is typical of many others that could be found in the city.

We have a warm spot in our hearts for our honorable mayor who is doing his best to have our wrongs righted and will not our dog-loving aldermen arouse themselves to a sense of public duty before the next city election day rolls around.

The Congress in 1879 appointed the Mississippi River Commission but made no provision for the actual building of levees or protection of the lands from overflow. In 1880 Congress made the first appropriation for the improvement of the Mississippi River. From 1879, the Mississippi commission, the Federal government has expended more than $80,000,000 in the improvement of the Mississippi river and the protection of lands from overflow.

ROUND TABLE GOVERNMENT

BY DON E. MOWRY

Secretary, The American Community Advertising Association

A civic Round Table to clear matters pertaining to activities in which the whole community should support is a valuable adjunct to city government and civic achievement.

Grand Rapids, Mich., has such a Round Table. "We can do more by team play," is the conclusion of Grand Rapids.

Representatives of 23 organizations, civic and semi-civic, gathered at meetings of the Grand Rapids Round Table.

They regulate city-wide campaigns for funds. They killed off one campaign for $125,000, deeming its cause unworthy. In another instance, the budget of a campaign was reduced from $250,000 to $221,000, and the community was saved just $129,000.

Now they have submitted to the city authorities a comprehensive scheme for financing public improvements suggested in the city plan.

This city plan has been officially adopted by the city government. The Round Table has notified the city government that if this plan is approved the 23 organizations will support it and try to get a favorable vote from the people.

The launching of this civic Round Table has delighted the citizens' league and the municipal advisory council.

SPRING FRESHETS RAISE LAKE LEVEL TO SEASON RECORD

Expect to Close Gates as Water Recedes to Summer Level

The crest of the present flood condition of Lake Winnebago has been reached, according to A. F. Everett, United States engineer in charge of the Fox river. The water was almost 15 inches above the crest of the government dam at Menasha when it stopped rising.

Although the level of the water was higher than at anytime within the last few months, it is only a normal condition expected by the government navigation officials every June following the spring rains.

The government had agreed with the dam owners who are members of the Association for the Relief of High Waters, that when the water in the lake reached 15 inches above the crest at the Menasha dam, the gates would be opened.

Officials of the Association for the Relief of High Waters expressed satisfaction in the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court which decided against the water power interests along the Fox river.

The association heads claim that the supreme court decision will eventually state control of all water power on the Fox river and Lake Winnebago by the state would greatly relieve flood conditions, it is said.

ASK POLICE TO WATCH FOR STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

Police have been asked to watch for a Ford coupe stolen May 22 at La Crosse. The car is easily distinguished by its gold band about 1 1/2 inches wide painted across the doors just below the glass. The right rear fender is split, and a radio cord wire is carried as a spare. The license number is B174-993, and the motor number is 10618066. It is the property of Robert Monsted, New London.

NEW GRIFFITH COMEDY

FAST AND FURIOUS FUN
Hailed as one of the milla-minute type of comedies that established Raymond Griffith as star, "Wedding Bills," his new Paramount picture, at Fishers Appleton Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story opens up with Griffith sound asleep at a friend's wedding but from that point on little sleeping is done as Griffith labors furiously and uproariously to save his best pal from the machinations of a blonde vamp and to win a champion of the same preferred coloring for himself.

A diamond necklace disappears and nothing contributes so much to the success of a Griffith picture as disappearing jewelry or other valuables as those who remember "Paths To Paradise," or "Hands Up," will testify.

Ann Sheridan, a newcomer to the films, who won her big chance through her work as one of the chorus girls in "Crazy at the Bat," with Wallace Beery, is the leading woman for Griffith. She is a striking blonde beauty, just 19 years old, and said to be exceptionally clever as an actress.

"MEN OF NIGHT"

THRILLING FILM

A crook drama, with absorbing heart interest acting so good it carries conviction, direction that is intelligent, thorough and painstaking are the characteristics of the new mother love and crook photodrama at the New Bijou theatre today and Tuesday.

This is "Men of the Night," a Sterling Production, made from a story by Florence Wagner. The picture is unusual among the average run of crook melodramas in that a tender heart interest runs straight through the picture, side by side with the thrills and smashing climaxes of the story of crime.

Gareth Hughes as Dick, Lucy Beaumont as the old lady, Wanda Hawley as the girl and Herbert Rawlinson as the elder crook, have the action of this powerful and thrilling romantic melodrama in their competent hands from start to finish. They keep the spectators' interest on the alert every minute of the time it takes to screen the film. They are all well cast. The role of Dick might have been written around Gareth Hughes, so well does he get into the part. Lucy Beaumont lives her role. Miss Hawley, Mr. Rawlinson and Jay Hunt and Mathilda Brundage are extremely effective.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is Third Hand Bids Convey Valuable Information When the Conventions Governing Them Are Understood by Both Partners.

The declarations made by the Third hand (i. e., by the partner of the Dealer, on the first round of the auction, will be the subject of this week's questions and answers.

Each day from now until Friday a hand will be given—supposed to be held by North, the partner of the Dealer (South)—and the dealer's declaration will be stated each day in four different cases: (1) Second Hand—West—always passes; so that during the week there will be twenty questions for the Bridge fans to answer. Each day an answer slip will appear, starting tomorrow and ending Saturday, the answers to the questions given on the previous day will be slated with a full explanation.

Once again, every Bridge-playing reader is urged to answer each day. Enter in pencil now on the answer slip at the end of this article the four declarations which you favor. Tomorrow compare your slip with the answers given and not how many of yours are correct. Do this each day this week and see whether your score is 20—the maximum; if not, how near you are to it. Get up a contest with one or more members of your family and also one with friends with whom you play. Start today, arrange as many contests as you can and run them for a week. No bridge test can be so easily managed, as interesting and instructive as this.

GREEN BAY WILL FETE JUDGES AT ANNUAL MEETING

Convention Will Be Held from June 22 to 23, Association Reports

Green Bay — (P) — County judges from all Wisconsin county courts are expected to gather at Green Bay June 22 and 23 for their annual convention. As the County Judges' convention dates are the same as those of the Wisconsin Bar association many of the events on the program have been arranged to "sandwich" with the activities of the bar association.

The convention proper will not get under way until the afternoon of the first day, the morning being taken up with registration. William L. Evans, Green Bay attorney, will deliver the address of welcome in the absence of Mayor McGillan, who at the same time will be giving the city's "hitch string" to the state bar delegates.

Judge Carlton Merrill, Brown county judge will second the welcoming talk and a response will be made by the association's president, L. Hensel, Trempealeau County Judge of Whitehall. A paper on "Power and Duties of County Courts over Administrators and Executors" will be delivered by Judge W. E. Haily, Douglas county judge of Superior.

A discussion led by Judge John Chloupek, of the Manitowish county court will trace a short talk by Earl H. Eklund, superintendent of the state reformatory. Following his talk Mr. Eklund will answer questions as to the work at the institution and will offer the judges an opportunity to visit the reformatory.

On the closing day Judge J. H. Hill, Sauk county judge of Baraboo will give a report of the committee on legislation. A general discussion and the "question box" will close the meeting. The county judges will banquet with the members of the state bar in the evening at which Prof.

GREEN BAY WILL LISTEN TO DARROW

Noted Criminal Lawyer and Orator Will Speak There on June 16

Green Bay — Clarence Darrow of Chicago, criminal lawyer and orator, is coming to Green Bay to address a public gathering on "The Big Things of the Day" under the auspices of The Hot Stove League, June 16. It is expected that more than 2,000 will hear the speaker.

"The Big Things of the Day" is an address Mr. Darrow is making at this time throughout the country. A short time ago he appeared before several thousand persons at Boston giving this address and it was applauded as one of the best heard in many years.

Mr. Darrow's eccentric views on matters of great importance are said to be very interesting. His keen mind and rapid wit lend momentum as well as extreme interest to his subjects. It is expected that he will attract one of the largest gatherings in Green Bay this year.

The Hot Stove League, which was organized in this city and so far as known the only organization of its kind in the world now has a roster of some 350 "hot stovers" including such noted men as Governor Fred R. Zimmerman, Attorney General John Levins, State Treasurer Sol Levison and several others.

Several Wisconsin cities have applied for charters but DePere is the only one thus far to have this granted them.

The first of the summer activities of the organization was a banquet held here recently which was attended by about 100 members of the corporation. A Hot Stove League baseball team was organized some time ago and are going fairly well in the Twilight League of this city.

Library Board Meets
The regular meeting of the library board will be held at the Appleton public library at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon. Miss Florence C. Day, librarian, will present her monthly report.

ANOTHER CHILDREN'S CRUSADDE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BAITON

PHILLIP CURTISS throws up his hands in a recent article called "Morality's New Threat." It reveals a new menace to us forty-niners who thought our Armageddon to be the younger generation.

Mr. Curtiss tells us to cheer up the worst is yet to come. The great menace it appears, is more superlative. It is the youngest generation—youthsters still in socks, devotees of the lollypop, the clean-throated, adonidless, tooth-banded army of kids.

What have we done, oh, what have we done, Marie? Perhaps you can do a bit of guessing yourself when I tell you that it is the small daughter of seven who registers disgust when mother dabs on a little rouge and tells her it is wicked.

A boy of nine walked into his father's library and suspiciously watched him shake a silver shaker filled with cracked ice. He demanded to know what was in it. His father hesitated, but deciding that the boy would soon have to meet the world, sleepily but bravely answered, "Well, son, there's a little lemon juice, a little orange juice, and a little gin--a little bit, a very little bit of--a gin."

"Gin!" cried the child, "to quote Mr. Curtiss again, with a look of repulsion, incredulity, and disgust that would have warmed the cockles of Wayne B. Wheeler."

These, of course, may be commendable examples of purity and clean ethics. But when a little girl shuts her lips tight, kicks and screams and refuses to study French because she declares it is naughty and frivolous language, and no amount of threats or scolding can change her, one cannot foretell what is going to happen.

As grandparents, our bridge games will have to take place behind locked doors and cigars or cigarettes will be smoked surreptitiously on the roof.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The shell house was a wondrous place. A smile spread on each Tiny's face, as all around the house they looked, while King Roar led the way. They found some coats that looked brand new and they were made of sea-shells too. When King Roar said, "That's where you sleep," the Tynies yelled "Hurrah!"

Then Clowzy stopped and looked them over. Said he, "I fear they'll make us sore. The seashells look so sharp and hard, they'll keep us all awake." Old King Roar laughed to beat the band. He answered, "You don't understand. When all the shells are covered up, a dandy bed they make." He then brought blankets by the score. Said he, "That's what we use these for. They're spread upon the little shells, and you'll soon understand." This made the Tynies broadly grin. The beds were made and they crawled in. It thrilled them all to know the king had made them all at hand.

Next morning, when the sun was high, and clearest blue awns in the sky, the happy band of Tynies went strolling down the beach. They went out on a dock, quite long, and hoped that they weren't doing wrong. They tried to pick some water flowers, but folded them out of reach.

Just then the king himself appeared, and when he smiled, the bunch were cheered. Their good friend said, "I've something here to open up your eyes." He then unwrapped a bundle small, while being watched by one and all. And, when they saw what it contained, they looked on in surprise.

"A diving helmet," Scoutly said. "It'll be 'twill fit right on my head. I wonder, can I try it, and will you show me how?" "You bet I will," the king replied, "It's not so hard to crawl inside. As long as you have asked me first, we'll put it on right now."

Scoutly meets the king at the bottom of the sea in the next story.

JUNE BRIDES MUST LEARN HOW TO COOK FOOD WITHOUT BURNING

VERY often the bride in the kitchen decides that sauce pans and spiders are never "aro" bewitched. Everything burns for her. "Things" never burned in her mother's kitchen.

She must remember that her mother learned through years of experience exactly the amount of water she needed to cook potatoes just right. She must learn that time flies "when her back is turned" and keep close watch of the minutes until her experience has taught her to measure time.

serve. The potatoes will absorb the excess salt.

If the cake burns on the bottom, the burned part will usually "peel" off while the cake is warm or it can be grated off after the cake cools. The next time you bake, put the grate up one or two notches in the oven or put a shallow pan of water directly under the cake. This will temper the heat at the bottom of the oven.

If the mayonnaise separates, take another egg yolk and slowly beat in the curdled dressing, then continue until all the oil and lemon juice is used.

CURDLED CUSTARD

If a custard sauce curdles beat it hard with a wheel egg beater. This same egg beater will often beat the lumps out of a white sauce that has refused to come smooth. If the sauce is very lumpy it can be put through a sieve and wheated.

Something a custard jelly refuses to stiffen in the time required. If it's quite evident that satisfactory results are not going to be obtained, more gelatin should be softened in cold water, dissolved over hot water and added at once.

There is seldom need to have a tragic failure in the kitchen. Cream on the verge of setting can be sweetened by stirring into it a "pinch" of baking soda dissolved in water. Then it can be used over vegetables or over dessert as planned.

GENERAL DIRECTIONS

Wash thoroughly, pare and scrape vegetables of skins must be removed. Keep in cold water until ready to cook to keep them crisp and to prevent their being discolored. Cook in boiling water; the water must be kept at the boiling point. Use two teaspoons salt with two quarts of water; put the salt into the water when the vegetables are cooked is called vegetable stock.

Fresh, green vegetables require less water than others.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

When Adolph Bohn left the witness stand, after very successfully combating Banning's attempt to ridicule him and to make light of his testimony as regards his proposal of marriage to Cherry, he turned toward the council table toward Cherry and her sister. Before the judge or the district attorney could interfere, the rich young man who had just declared his love for Cherry and his unsuccessful effort to marry her, stopped before the shining-eyed, smiling little defendant and thrust out a hand. Cherry grasped his hand, clung to it a moment while her eyes misted over with tears, and while Banning shouted his horrified protest at this "brazen attempt to influence the jury," Churchill, smiling broadly, gave the name of the next witness Mrs. Mitchell, a next-door neighbor of the Lane family. While he was waiting for Mrs. Mitchell to make her appearance, he leaned toward Bob, who was beckoning him.

"Yes," Churchill whispered in answer to Bob's question, "Brady Hutchinson was one of the ex-convicts that Crockett dug out. But he seems on the square now. Couldn't get a thing on him. Got a business even though it is a mail order concern that may overstep the postal laws any time. But what's the idea?"

"Oh, I just ran into him today and recognized him," Bob answered evasively. "I just wondered if you had overlooked him as the possible writer of the death threat letter, as the papers call it."

Twice a day during the next two days, while Churchill was examining a small army of character witnesses called to strengthen Cherry's defense, Faith and Bob made pilgrimages to the Lincoln Park corner where they had seen Phil, the beggar. But they learned from the old newspaper proprietor that the beggar had not appeared again.

"He's just here off and on," old

POTATO BUG IS LATEST IDEA IN POTTERY MOTIFS

INTO the field of decoration has come the potato bug. No one ever thought very kindly of him, before but potters have taken him up and are treating him kindly. The contour of his bug form etched into the side of a potato brown lamp vase, flower bowl or tobacco jar appears artistic and pleasing to the eye.

But the potato bug is not having things all his own way. Meadow larks, buffaloes and gophers are vying with him for honors. Margaret Kelly Cable, assistant professor of ceramics in the college of engineering of the University of North Dakota, showed the world typical designs in American pottery at the Women's World's Fair. Her rapidly revolving potter's wheel spun merrily as she coaxed a lump of wet clay into a vase of graceful proportions and in the meanwhile she gave her group of listeners an introduction to North Dakota with its vast resources in potter's clay.

Designs in the brilliant piece of Czech, Italian or Holland ware may be as foreign to most of us as the language of the countries from which they come but this rich, lustrous pottery talks United States. Coming from the "bread baskets of the world" much of it is marked by heads or stalks of wheat with gophers hiding out somewhere in the design. The jack rabbit and buffalo tell a story of the plains easy enough for any American to understand.

North Dakota pottery is finished in either matt or gloss glaze. The matt glaze is characterized by a dull metallic sheen in russet, brown, fire green, cloud gray, huckleberry blue or orange. The gloss glaze is of fine pastel colors, the charm of which lies chiefly in blended effects; a delicate rose shading into lavender suggestive of a dove's breast; or a celadon green which loses itself in a hyacinth blue.

Lunch—Cold sliced lamb loaf, mustard jelly, lettuce salad, nut bread, fruit punch.

Dinner—Veal cutlets, macaroni baked with tomatoes, molded spinach and egg salad, steamed cherry pudding, milk, coffee.

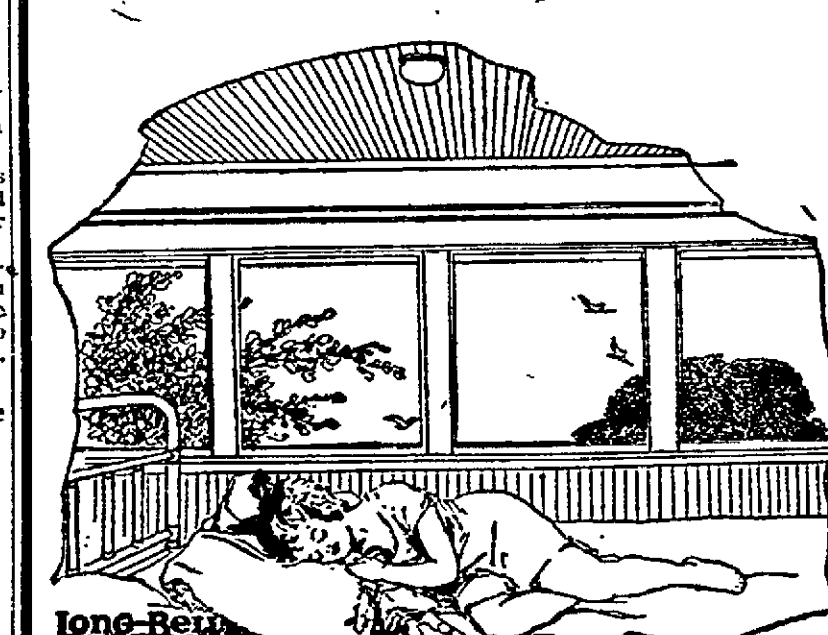

Mint jelly is delicious with cold meat other than lamb but is of course traditional with lamb. A jelly is never served than a sauce. The sparkling jelly is most appetizing to look at and "stays put" on one's plate.

MINT JELLY

One cup minced mint leaves, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon paprika.

Heat mint leaves in vinegar and water, strain through cheesecloth and add gelatine and seasonings. Stir until gelatine is dissolved. A little green vegetable coloring can be added if a distinct green color is wanted.

It wasn't so many years ago that folks thought night air was poisonous. Your grandparents probably slept with the windows closed tight except in the summer time.

Everybody knows now-days that the more fresh air we get into our lungs day or night the better off we are.

Hence the sleeping porches that you find throughout the land.

There's no single feature you could add to your home that will be enjoyed by the entire family like a sleeping porch. It means better health; it means getting a good night's rest and arising in the morning fully refreshed.

new peaks of Speed, power and safety

What Hudson Did
"Demonstration Week"

In addition to hundreds of new records for speed, power, acceleration, hill-climbing and inter-city reliability runs, during a nationwide "Demonstration Week", the Hudson Super-Six contributed these brilliant new marks in the local arena of motor supremacy:

Speed, Inter-City Driving—From 514 E. Allen-St. to Washington Park traffic signal, Milwaukee—Speedometer reading 112 miles. Time 2 hours and 19 minutes. A. J. Haen driving. Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Ray and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, passengers.

Acceleration—Local demonstrations, in a distance of 2 blocks, a pickup from 10 miles to 55 miles an hour.

Hill Climbing—On "Chair Factory" Hill from a dead stop on bridge, on high, 16 miles an hour at the top.

Braking Demonstration—Dead turn at 60 miles an hour, brakes set—stop without jolt or rear end sway.

Mileage On Gas—14 1/2 miles to the gallon, traveling 45 to 60 miles an hour from Appleton to Iron Mountain, Michigan. One trip of 500 miles, no oil added.

Continuing a Second Week of Demonstrations

The thousands who rode in the Hudson Super-Six during the nationwide "Demonstration Week" say "There is nothing like it in the World". Because it was impossible, locally, to take care of all who wished to ride, we are continuing a second "Week of Demonstration". Come in and experience this all-different thrill. You too will say, "Nothing like it in the World".

SELECT PLACE FOR GOLF MEET TODAY

Appleton Course Is Favored at Meeting of State Amateur Moguls

Wisconsin golfers will know by dusk Monday just where the 1927 state amateur championship is to be held. Officials of the Wisconsin State association gathered in annual conference Monday at the Blue Mound club, Milwaukee.

At mid-day the executive session will be held to elect officers and choose a site for the title meet. Immediately afterward a special 18-hole medal handicap event, always a part of these annual meetings, will take place.

The likely choice for the amateur, the E. L. Morris, Appleton, is the better choice for the amateur, with Maple Bluff, Madison, as a substitute should Butte des Morts not take it. Gus Kent, Sheboygan, is state president.

This year's Wisconsin State golf meet is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday at the Appleton course, which is the site of the 1926 meet. The Appleton course is the site of the 1926 meet. The Appleton course is the site of the 1926 meet.

14 BADGER TRACKMEN IN NATIONAL EVENTS

Chicago—(AP)—Cinder path stars from sixty universities and colleges were nominated Monday for the sixth annual test of the National Collegiate individual track championships here Friday and Saturday. All Big Ten and Missouri Valley institutions have sent entries, along with twelve southern and five western schools. Wisconsin has entered the largest squad of point winners, fourteen, including Captain Chuck McGinnis, individual star of the Western Conference this year. He hopes to set a new high jump mark before his collegiate days are over. Illinois, winner of the big ten track championship a week ago, has entered all its event winners. Coach Templeton of Stanford, winner of the Pacific coast meet last Saturday, has promised to send some of his best field men.

They are: F. H. Sweeney, William O'Shea, and Charley Thompson, Chicago; John Henry Lewis, Huntington, Kas.; Kenneth Radick and Arthur Bultman, Green Bay; Manager Paul Devitt, Davenport, Iowa, and Sheldon Jens, John Carney, Mike Treps, Leonard Gitter, M. McLaughlin, Henry Van Peterson, Saxin Morgan and Clarence Jarvis, Milwaukee.

Golfing, Crew Complete Sport Year At Wisconsin

Madison—With Wisconsin's baseball game here Saturday, interest on the season at a close with the Chicago Badger campus is centering about the activities of the golfers and the crew. The rowing program facing Coach Vail's oarsmen the next three weeks is a stiff one, involving a dual race with the University of Washington here June 17 and the Poughkeepsie Regatta on the Hudson June 22.

The veteran rowing coach is bending his efforts toward priming the frosh for their race in the east, as they will be the only Cardinal boat to enter the national classic. There is plenty of power in the yearling eight, but the men are green and have a long way to go before they will be in shape to battle the powerful eastern boats. The Navy and California are ruled early favorites in the freshmen event.

Final arrangements have been made with the Washington officials to race the Huskies Junior Varsity and the Wisconsin freshmen when the two varsity crews race over a two mile course on Lake Mendota. This will give the Badger frosh some added experience, which they lack to a great degree at present.

The golf team has completed a highly successful year, losing only one match in six, and that to Michigan. Although hoped to play the Wolverines fairly even on their home course, the locals were met with such phenomenal performances by Michigan, that the Maize and Blue team were unbeatable. The boys are playing daily over the Maple Bluff course here, preparing for the Conference matches which get under way at Chicago next Thursday.

Bobby's Class Stamps Him Favorite In National Open

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York—Speaking of this year's open, and almost every golfer at some time or other chins a bit about it, one can't overlook this fella Jones. Robert Tyre has never failed to break 80 in the national classic. At the same time, he has never broken 70. Kicks that around for consistency. He never deviates by more than a few strokes over a long period of years from his everyday average of about 72. Once in a great while he permits himself the luxury of dipping into the 60s—and, when he does, it usually is a breath-taking splurge such as characterized his world's record thriller at Sunningdale in the British open qualifying.

Scores of the last seven U. S. opens lend a remarkable slant to the backbone of this story. Neither rain, nor snow, nor wind, nor bunker could stop the remorseless Atlantian. For seven years he has been as steady as a Swiss chronometer—a record unparalleled in golf.

The weakest round Bobby has ever shot in an open. Oddly enough, it did not prevent his winning it. It was the second round at Scioto last year, a 79. That 79 is his low water mark for all his championship quests.

He does not like short holes and has a tendency to pull his irons off the line. He messed up the ninth with a wobbly five. On the fifteenth his ball turned over while he was addressing it and it unruffled him. He missed up the short seventeenth and collapsed on the home green taking seven strokes to get down. He blew a club length putt for a 5 and capped the climax by running the cup coming back.

He pulled himself together gloriously though and finished with 144, an average of 72.

Here are his scores for the seven famous opens. You will note his middle rounds are the best. He is inclined to be a bit off, opening and closing, on five occasions. He has had sparkling 70s and fate played him a dirty trick twice when his two lowest cards, 259 and 291, did not win the title.

Inverness, 1920, 78-74-70-77—299.
Columbia, 1921, 78-71-77-77—303.

Lawood, 1923, 71-73-76-76—296.
Detroit, 1924, 74-73-75-78—300.
Worcester, 1925, 77-70-74—291.
Scioto, 1926, 70-73-71-73—293.
Class, it seems, tells in the long run. That's what Bobby has nothing else but.

HURLERS WIN GAMES IN MAJOR LEAGUES

Teams With Best Pitching Getting Most Victories in Both Loops

Major league teams with the best pitching are the ones that are getting the most victories at this stage of the pennant race.

The New York Giants turned away from Cincinnati with an even break after a four-game split with the cellar dwelling Reds. The Brooklyn Robins were making the most of their pitching strength in a close duel with the world champion Cardinals.

Pitching was the key word in the closing frame of the Giants-Reds series Sunday at Cincinnati which went to the Reds, 10-9.

Of nine pitchers who took the mound none could stop the hitting. Eight hurling wars were seen at St. Louis where Brooklyn pitching gave the club half a double header with the Cardinals. In the first game Grover Cleveland Alexander demonstrated the champions own pitching strength by granting only eight hits for an 8 to 0 victory.

Bill Dool of the Robins outpitched Jesse Haines and allowed but five safeties in a 6 to 1 victory.

Good pitching performances were comparatively numerous. In a 7 to 0 whitewash administered by the Chicago Cubs to the Boston Braves, Sheriff Blake allowed but five hits and Zachary of the St. Louis Browns pitched a six-hit game for his team's third straight over the Senators, 9 to 1.

The one exception to the rule that tight pitching wins was the 3-3 victory of the New York Yankees over the Detroit Tigers, who outbit them 12 to 6. However, one of the half of the dozen hits made off Whitehill was Babe Ruth's seventeenth homer of the year with none on and another was a single by the same gentleman which drove in the winning run. The Babe's home run put him ahead of his record year, 1921, when he made a total of 33 homers in the season.

FIVE MEN ADVANCE IN PRESIDENT PLAY

We s c o, McKenny, Brandt, Steinberg, Spoor, Enter 2nd Round of Meet

KIMBERLY WINS TWO TO HOLD LOOP LEAD

Menasha Falls Before K-C Attack, 4-3, and Kaukauna Loses 11-4

Special to Post-Crescent

Kimberly—Kimberly held the top position in the Fox River valley loop by winning both battles of a double header here Sunday; beating Menasha in the first game, 4-3, and white washing Kaukauna for a 11-4 win in the second. The first try was by far the better of the two as Menasha nearly walked off with the game in the final frame when Kimberly apparently had it stowed away.

Kimberly got its first score in the first inning and another in the sixth. A seventh inning rally by Menasha which netted three runs gave the Pails the lead. In Kimberly's half 11. Then got a two bagger, stole third and came in on a passed ball to win the game.

CARDS LOSE TO CHI TO FINISH SEVENTH

Madison, Wis.—(AP)—Wisconsin's baseball team closed the 1927 baseball season with a defeat and a hold on seventh place in the Big Ten. The University of Chicago nine provided a disappointing final for the Badgers, piling up a big lead in the sixth inning and stopping the threat in the ninth when the Wisconsin nine filled the bases with two out. The score was 4-1.

Stoll, the Badger crack finger, and Tolle Barnum who has called the season behind the bat for three seasons played their final games. The unofficial final Big Ten standings are as follows:

LAWRENCE AWARDED MIDWEST LOOP MEET

Blues Will Play Host to Colleges from Four States Here in Spring

The 1928 Lawrence college track team and other Wisconsin Midwest conference squads as well, will have the best chance to place high in a Midwest conference meet of any Blue squad since the loop was organized. Lawrence is honored by the selection to award the 1928 track and field championships to Lawrence and they will be held at Whiting field. The Blues will be enabled to enter an entire squad rather than the usual five to eight men made necessary by the distance to the meet.

Lawrence is honored by the selection as ten colleges, representing the leading institutions of four mid-west states will send teams here. The Blue sport authorities are making plans for the biggest track event of the year.

The coaches also adopted several new plans which will materially and the conference schools, at the meeting at which Lawrence received the meet.

START FROSH COMPETITION

The first of these plans was the adoption of a freshmen schedule allowing each school to schedule two freshmen football games, four basketball games, two baseball games, one track meet, and one telegraphic dual track meet. Inasmuch as the freshmen rule barring first year men from competition for school year instead of for one semester as it has been, will go into effect next year, the frosh games will aid in the development of men of varsity caliber.

In addition it will give the frosh teams the glory of actual competition, taking away the feeling of that they are only of benefit to the institution in that they act as a more or less weak state wall to receive the batterings of the varsity.

The games may be scheduled with secondary schools or with freshmen teams of other colleges.

ROUND ROBIN SCHEDULE

The second plan was adopted for one trial year the round robin basketball schedule. The plan was submitted by the coaches of the northern schools including Lawrence who feel that they are more or less isolated as far as the conference is concerned, and provides that each team will play every other team in the conference at least once each season. The schedule will go into effect next year.

JEFF BURRUS IS ALL-AROUND MAN

Badger Shines on Grid, in Crew, Leads in Scholarship, Popularity

BY BOB MATHERNE

One of those rare campus heroes—a football and crew man, a Phi Beta Kappa student, and a social leader—is soon to leave the Wisconsin campus. Handsome Jeff Burrus of Louisville, Ky., is the person referred to. Burrus is going to enter Oxford next year as a Rhodes scholar. He will, while there, strive to be the first oarsman from the middle west to gain a seat in the great Oxford crew.

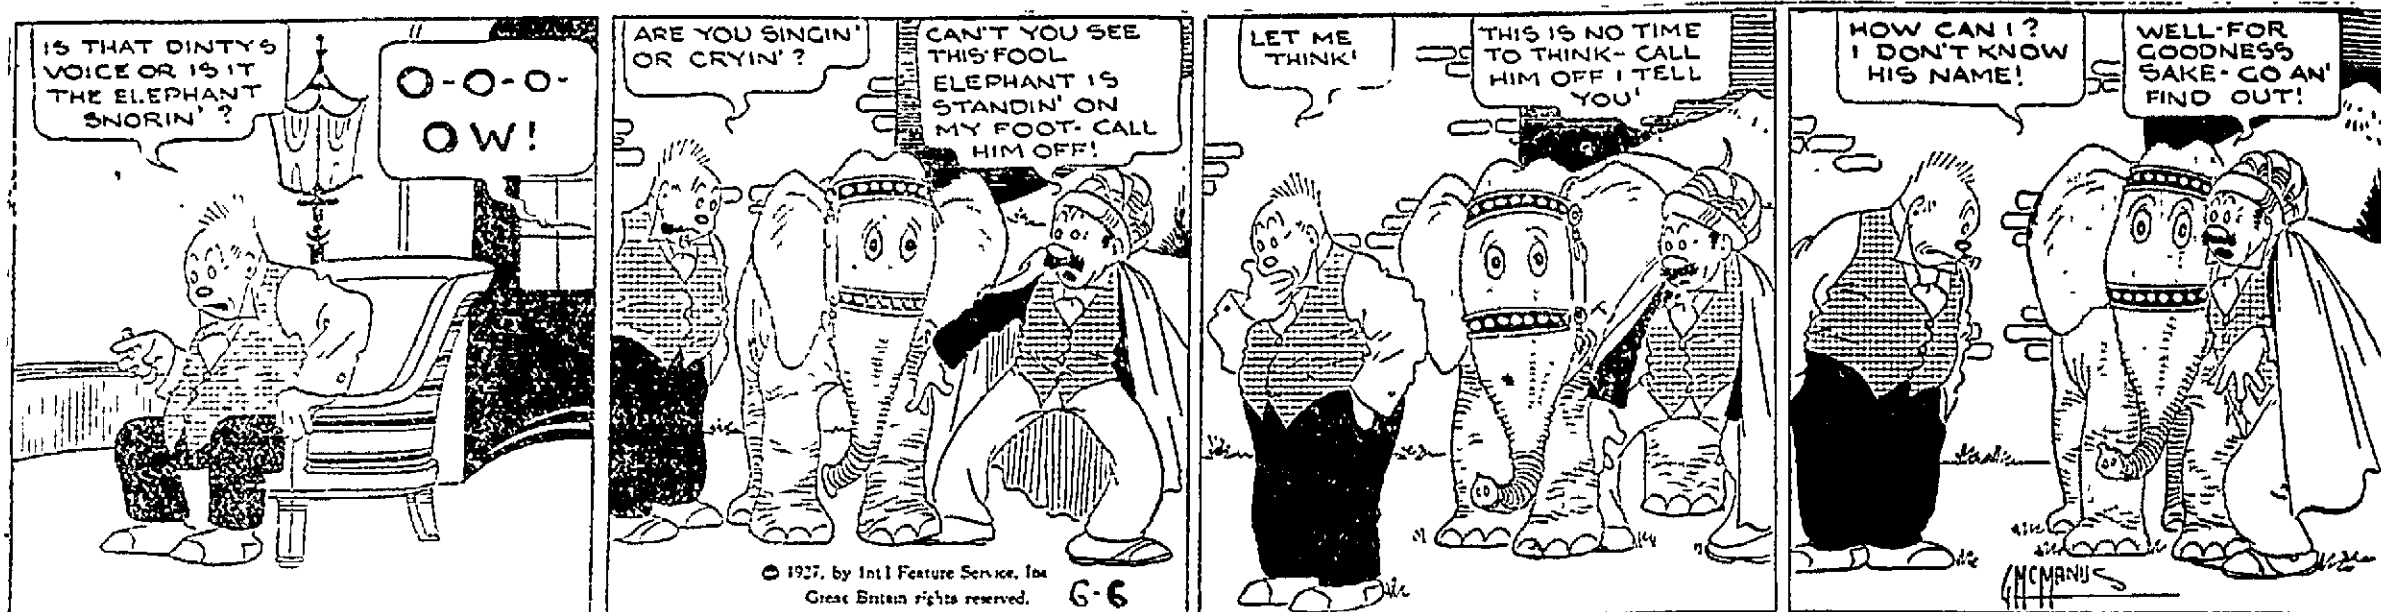

While on that subject, you can get it down in your memory book as coming from "Dad" Vail, who really knows his onions on this crew proposition, that the Englishmen are going to find this lanky southerner a hard man to keep off their crew.

Burrus has been one of the most popular figures on the Wisconsin campus and his departure will be a blow to the Badgers in all times. He was a better than average football player, playing end on the Badger team for the past few seasons, and being selected by many as all-conference end. He was captain of this year's crew. He led the junior prom, a tribute to his popularity. Versatile, sure enough.

JACK LOCKWILL IN THE AIR

June had come. The students of Rocklake Academy were eager to be away for the summer vacation. Jack Lockwill took Betty Darling out for one more spin through the country in his roadster, which had been repaired at the factory after an accident in which Betty had been slightly injured. She was regretful, almost sad. "We won't see each other for a long time, Jack," she said.

Two lovers sat in fond embrace A twinning smile upon each face A cunning pair of nesters (Some people called them wrestlers)

Consider today the wrestlers, boys and girls. They live on the fat of the land.

The day when wrestlers wrestled, Mons. O'Goofy asseverates, has flown. The Mons. further illuminates us with the fact that now they only wrest.

Wrestling in the days when Greece was in flower was a grueling game. Now it's only a game, and most of the grease is deposited on the mat.

Old Earthen Dam Now Is Lighting City Li

Pine River—(P)—A little earthen dam built by the pioneers here to supply power for a saw mill and flour mill when some machinery was

Now is powerful machinery, fighting city lights and running motors in the surrounding territory. It has been rebuilt for the electric service, but it remains on the same site that the early settlers picked without engineering skill.

Completion of the plant marks a step in the policy of the company which built it of erecting small power stations to permit utilization of a natural resource that has been unproductive or only partially used.

When this station was entered this country they sought a location on a stream where conditions were suitable for the erection of a dam, so that unceasing power might be obtained to enable them to conquer the obstacles that were encountered in civilizing the country. This was born the village of Pine River.

Later, as the forests began to be cut down, the land was advanced, and the saw mill was dismantled. With the past forests, more land was brought into the plow and as a consequence quantities of grain were transported to the local grain ground into flour.

Then came the invention of electrical machinery and the electrical service. The new River, like many other, had been entered this country. The water power to generate electricity, which was supplied to certain irregular intervals to which electricity was by leaps and bounds, with customers began to demand a current and continuous service.

The small isolated station

In 1856, an earthen dam was constructed at what is now the village of Soudan, to supply power for a saw mill and a flour mill.
